

Hi Sweetheart!

It is Friday night and I am sitting here thinking to myself how sweet you are. I know exactly how you feel. You and I are both very generous but for some reason we don't expect generosity from others. You're always generous with love, but (I think) find it difficult to eat other people's love. Like when [redacted] had that party for example. I'm not sure when I'm like that but I'm a bit of you are too. Something I hope you realize now is that you are not the 'blame' of the week casual girlfriend. You're my fiancee and I intend on making you my wife! Mom + Dad know this and have remarked on numerous occasions how much they like you and how good you are for me. Rest easy knowing you're not on your own. We're not on our own. I am very confident that I'll be returning home soon, and I will be able to contribute to the household. [redacted] maybe will be able to do that Jimmy Buffet tour in Oct. No promise on that, but it's a nice goal. As always, I think of you constantly and love for the time we're back together where we belong.

-Michael David

Good morning baby!

Ok, so time is officially crawling by. Not that it had been flying by, but now it is passing so slowly, I can't help but be convinced that I will be going home soon. The anticipation is excruciating! They took my shaving razor when they did the last "shave-down". I swear, there's no consistency here! The last few times, they left my razor, but took my extra socks and tore down the noise barriers I put up. This time, they left the noise barrier, I even used the extra towel I use as a pillow case. I was breaking out on my neck from sleeping against the rubber pillow. I was so glad they didn't take the extra towel, it almost makes up for them "stealing" my razor. I need a shave today (Sunday) but will have to wait until Tuesday when my commissary order arrives. Since I will be going home next week, this will be the last time I buy a single blade razor! 😊 I am now much looking forward to seeing you soon and can't wait to hold you in my arms again. You're always in my dreams and I think about you throughout the day. Thanks for helping me through this. I could not have done it alone. Love,

Michael Davis