FEDERAL STATUTES

28 U.S.C. § 144 ..... 1, 3

28 U.S.C. § 455 ..... 3, 4

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 Plaintiff Kiara Robles (“Plaintiff”) and her counsel Mr. Larry Klayman and Mr. Michael 3 Kolodzi move for reconsideration of the Court’s order granting the City of Berkeley’s motion to 4 revoke Mr. Klayman’s pro hac vice status. (Dkts. 49, 85 (“Revocation Order”).) Though The 5 Regents of the University of California, Janet Napolitano, and Nicholas Dirks (“University
6 Defendants”) take no position on the revocation of Mr. Klayman’s pro hac vice admission to this 7 Court, the University Defendants oppose Plaintiff’s frivolous arguments that Judge Wilken should 8 have recused herself from this action or should be disqualified. Whether treated as a procedurally 9 improper motion for reconsideration of this Court’s prior order denying Plaintiff’s request for 10 voluntary recusal in Kiara Robles v. The Regents of the University of California et al., No. 4:17-
11 cv-03235-CW (“Robles I”), or as a new request for recusal or disqualification in the instant action,
12 Plaintiff’s motion should be denied. No reasonable person with knowledge of all of the facts
13 would conclude that Judge Wilken’s impartiality might reasonably be questioned, and Plaintiff 14 fails to identify any cognizable legal or factual basis for recusal or disqualification.

15 II. ARGUMENT

16 The law is clear that “a judge has ‘as strong a duty to sit when there is no legitimate reason 17 to recuse as he [or she] does to recuse when the law and facts require.’” Clemens v. U.S. Dist.
18 Court for Cent. Dist. of Cal., 428 F.3d 1175, 1179 (9th Cir. 2005) (quoting Nichols v. Alley, 71 19 F.3d 347, 351 (10th Cir. 1995)). Under 28 U.S.C. § 144, recusal is required whenever a judge has 20 a “personal bias or prejudice” concerning a party. “The statute contemplates an objective standard 21 requiring recusal whenever a reasonable person might question the judge’s impartiality.” In re 22 Beverly Hills Bancorp, 752 F.2d 1334, 1341 (9th Cir. 1984). “Since a federal judge is presumed 23 to be impartial, the party seeking disqualification bears a substantial burden to show that the judge 24 is biased.” Harper v. Lugbauer, 2012 WL 734167, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 6, 2012) (internal 25 quotation marks omitted). Plaintiff fails to carry this burden.

26 First, Plaintiff’s argument that Judge Wilken should be disqualified based on her law 27 school alma mater and/or the political affiliation of the president who appointed her is absurd and 28 should be rejected. As this Court explained in denying Plaintiff’s request for voluntary recusal in

1 Robles I, “[e]ven accepted as true, these circumstances do not create the appearance of a conflict
2 of interest.” (Robles I, Dkt. 56 (citing Larson v. C.I.A., 2010 WL 4623923, at *1 (E.D. Cal. Nov.
3 5, 2010)).) Indeed, another court rejected precisely these same arguments when Mr. Klayman
4 made them elsewhere. Klayman v. Judicial Watch, Inc., 278 F. Supp. 3d 252, 262–63 (D.D.C.
5 2017) (finding Mr. Klayman’s arguments “nonsensical”). As the Judicial Watch court explained, 6 “the case law is clear that recusal is not warranted” based on the political party of the appointing 7 president. Id. at 263. Courts have found no basis for recusal or disqualification even where the 8 judge previously “had a former active connection with a political party.” In re Martinez-Catala, 9 129 F.3d 213, 221 (1st Cir. 1997) (emphasis added); In re Mason, 916 F.2d 384, 386–87 (7th Cir.
10 1990) (“Courts that have considered whether pre-judicial political activity is also prejudicial 11 regularly conclude that it is not.”).

12 Nor does the fact that Judge Wilken attended the University of California, Berkeley School 13 of Law or taught there as an adjunct faculty member more than two decades ago demonstrate any 14 objective basis on which a reasonable person could question the Court’s impartiality. The Ninth 15 Circuit has held that “graduation from a university, prior service as an adjunct, and the receipt of 16 alumni awards do not create the appearance of impropriety. Nor does service on an alumni board 17 when it does not create a fiduciary interest in pending litigation.” In re Complaint of Judicial 18 Misconduct, 816 F.3d 1266, 1267–68 (9th Cir. 2016). Based on this principle, courts have 19 repeatedly found it proper for judges to preside over matters involving their alma maters. See 20 United States ex rel. Hochman v. Nackman, 145 F.3d 1069, 1076 (9th Cir. 1998) (no abuse of 21 discretion for failing to recuse in qui tam action alleging wrongdoing by USC School of Medicine
22 employees when judge was an alumnus of USC’s law school and made annual contributions); 23 Lunde v. Helms, 29 F.3d 367, 370–71 (8th Cir. 1994) (same where judge was alumnus of 24 defendant-university’s law school, made financial contributions, and had spoken at the university); 25 Wu v. Thomas, 996 F.2d 271, 274–75 & n. 7 (11th Cir. 1993) (per curiam) (same where judge was 26 alumnus of defendant-university, served as unpaid adjunct professor, and made an annual 27 contribution); Easley v. Univ. of Mich. Bd. of Regents, 906 F.2d 1143, 1145–46 (6th Cir. 1990)
28 (same where judge was alumnus of defendant-law school and member of alumni organization). Cf.

1 also Sierra Club v. Simkins Indus., Inc., 847 F.2d 1109, 1116-17 (4th Cir. 1988) (membership in 2 Sierra Club before joining the bench does not disqualify judge in litigation filed by the Sierra
3 Club); id. at 1117 (“[L]itigants are entitled to a judge free of personal bias, but not to a judge 4 without any personal history before appointment to the bench.”).

5         Second, this Court’s decision granting the City of Berkeley’s motion to revoke Mr.
6 Klayman’s pro hac vice status is insufficient to demonstrate bias. It is beyond dispute that 7 “[a]dverse findings do not equate to bias.” United States v. Johnson, 610 F.3d 1138, 1148 (9th
8 Cir. 2010). “[J]udicial rulings alone almost never constitute a valid basis for a bias or partiality
9 motion,” Liteky v. United States, 510 U.S. 540, 555 (1994), and for good reason: if adverse 10 rulings alone were sufficient to demonstrate bias, every judge would be subject to disqualification
11 or recusal because one party will always suffer an adverse ruling. That Plaintiff and Mr. Klayman 12 disagree with this Court’s order revoking Mr. Klayman’s pro hac vice status is “grounds for 13 appeal, not for recusal.” Id.; see also United States v. Studley, 783 F.2d 934, 939 (9th Cir. 1986)
14 (“[A] judge’s prior adverse ruling is not sufficient cause for recusal”); Leslie v. Grupo ICA, 198
15 F.3d 1152, 1160 (9th Cir. 1999) (allegations of bias based solely on judge’s adverse rulings are not 16 an adequate basis for recusal). Plaintiff asserts she will be unable to secure alternate counsel, but 17 even if that were the case, the Constitution does not require admission of Mr. Klayman pro hac
18 vice, nor does it guarantee Plaintiff counsel in this civil case. See Leis v. Flynt, 439 U.S. 438, 443
19 (1979) (per curiam) (“[T]he Constitution does not require that because a lawyer has been admitted
20 to the bar of one State, he or she must be allowed to practice in another.”); Turner v. Rogers, 564
21 U.S. 431, 441-42 (2011) (“[T]he Sixth Amendment does not govern civil cases.”).

22         Third, Plaintiff’s assertion that this Court made “many” “intentionally false or misleading 23 findings,” is specious. There is nothing inaccurate about the Court’s findings. But even if 24 Plaintiff were right about the inaccuracies, it would not demonstrate bias or provide a basis for 25 disqualification. Plaintiff claims that the Court made a “patently false finding that Robles had 26 previously moved to disqualify her,” when Plaintiff had instead moved for voluntary recusal. But, 27 this is a distinction without difference. As this Court noted in denying the request for voluntary
28 recusal under 28 U.S.C. § 455 in Robles I, “[t]he standards for disqualification or recusal under 28

1 U.S.C. §§ 144 and 455 are identical.” United States v. Sibla, 624 F.2d 864, 867 (9th Cir. 1980).
2 Plaintiff concedes as much in this very motion. (Mot. at 4.) Whether Plaintiff’s frivolous attempts 3 at judge-shopping are described as a motion for voluntary recusal or as a disqualification motion, 4 the Court’s ultimate conclusion is sound: “Klayman has demonstrated ‘a pattern of disregard for 5 local rules, ethics, and decorum; and he has demonstrated a lack of respect for the judicial 6 process ....’” (Revocation Order at 10.) Plaintiff also argues that this Court failed to address the 7 pending appeal of the D.C. Bar’s recommendation that Mr. Klayman be sanctioned. Even if this 8 could support a finding of bias (which it cannot), Plaintiff’s assertion is factually inaccurate. (See 9 Dkt. 85 (“[E]ven though the D.C. Bar’s recommendation is still on appeal, its findings that 10 Klayman violated Rules of Professional Responsibility were still instructive.”).)

11 Finally, Plaintiff apparently misapprehends the precedential effect of a dissenting Ninth 12 Circuit opinion. That Judge Gould disagreed with the majority in Bundy does not create an 13 “incontrovertible finding[] of fact” that binds this Court, (Mot. at 7), much less demonstrate any 14 basis for finding bias or partiality. In re Bundy, 840 F.3d 1034 (9th Cir. 2016). To the contrary, a 15 published (and precedential) Ninth Circuit opinion held that there was a “very good reason” for 16 the district court’s decision denying Mr. Klayman’s pro hac vice status: “although he had several 17 opportunities to clear the record, Klayman was not forthcoming about the nature and status of” the 18 ongoing disciplinary proceedings in the District of Columbia. Id. at 1044. Indeed, the majority 19 noted that Mr. Klayman’s unflattering record was “not one that the district court should ignore.”
20 Id. at 1046-47. This Court properly considered the very same record that the Ninth Circuit 21 instructed district courts to regard. The appropriate consideration of binding precedent cannot 22 reasonably be characterized as evidence of bias.

23 III. CONCLUSION

24 For the reasons set forth above, Plaintiff’s motion for reconsideration should be denied 25 insofar as it seeks to disqualify Judge Wilken.
